Course Description:

This 4-hour course is for fire investigators, police officers, or personnel tasked with the collection, packaging, and submission of fire debris evidence.

Topics will include collection, packaging, and preservation of fire debris, liquid evidence, clothing items, soil, biohazards, and the collection of comparison samples. Also included is a brief presentation of how the samples are processed, analyzed, and preserved in the lab. Understanding laboratory report wording, and what information does the report provide you if your case goes to trial will also be discussed.

Additional topics of interest may be covered as time allows.

Certificates will be issued for 4 hours of training.
